MUSSOLINI DEFIES THE PROMISE OF CHURCHILL THAT ITALY IS TO BE RAKED BY ROYAL AIR FORCE PLANES

Voice, Presumably That of Il Duce, Admits Italy "Stabbed France in the Back" — Speech Marks First Occasion Mussolini Has Addressed Italian People in 18 Months

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 2 — With a frank admission that Italy "stabbed France in the back," Premier Mussolini made an ostensible appearance before the Fascist Chamber of Corporations today to defy Prime Minister Winston Churchill's promise that Italy will be raked from heel to boot-top by Royal Air Force planes when Africa is cleansed of Axis troops.

A voice, presumably that of Il Duce and wracked frequently by coughing and wheezing, was heard over the Rome radio.

It answered Churchill's ultimatum by announcing that Germany would supply Italy with anti-aircraft guns and other defenses against air raids and that all women and children must be removed from cities likely to be targets of RAF attack.

The speech marked the first occasion that Mussolini—assuming that Il Duce actually was present in person—had addressed the Italian people in 18 months.

He sought to minimize the devastation wrought so far in current series of Royal Air Force bombardments but in the same breath disclosed that considerable destruction had been visited upon the cities of Genoa, Turin and Milan.

Il Duce mentioned only the destruction of houses, divulging nothing concerning the widespread damage done to the port area of Genoa and the industrial center of Turin.

OUTSIDE DECORATIVE LIGHTS DISCOURAGED

Residents Requested Not To Display Xmas Lights During Emergency

BUCKS CO. CONFORMS

In order that Bucks County may conform with the requests and wishes of the State Council of Defense and the Office of Civilian Defense at Washington, cooperation of the public in the matter of outside Christmas decoration lighting is asked.

It is the request of defense officials that all communities on the Eastern Seaboard do not display outside Christmas lighting during the present national emergency.

This includes outside lighting of all residences, stores and general decorative street lighting, states Colonel Churchill Williams, commander of Bucks County Citizens Defense Corps. Thus matters will be greatly facilitated at the time of alerts or tests, as it is the belief that otherwise countless decorative lightings would remain on while occupants of the premises were out for the evening.

Joint Meeting, Auxiliaries, Will Be Christmas Party

A joint meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary and the Junior Auxiliary is arranged for Friday evening in Bracken Post home. It will be in the form of a Christmas party.

Each one attending is requested to take a gift for exchange; also a wash cloth. The wash cloths will be donated to a veterans' hospital.

A guest on that evening will be Mrs. Arthur Yealy, Department Junior chairman.

WANTS TO KNOW HOW MANY WOMEN ARE AVAILABLE FOR WORK

War Industries Here Face A Critical Shortage During Next 12 Months

NEED WOMEN WORKERS

Survey To Be Made and Women Are Asked to Return Questionnaires

"I can confirm the facts contained in an article published in the Courier Monday concerning the need for 2000 additional people to work in producing the implements of war in plants in the Bristol area. These workers are to be needed during the next year, as you stated," said John Stlemmer. Mr. Stlemmer is manager of the Bristol office of the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

Mr. Stlemmer is chairman of a committee named several weeks ago to compile some facts about the necessity for these workers, from what source they are to be produced and whether or not the said workers are available in this particular area, or if they are to be imported.

"As we all know there is a distinct shortage of manpower and this shortage, apparently, is going to become more acute as times goes on. With conditions as they are and with the prospect that they will become even more serious in so far as manpower supply is concerned, there is but one alternative and that is the employment of women," said Mr. Stlemmer.

"Executives of the local industries engaged in producing for the war effort tell our committee that unless they are able to get the necessary labor that production is going to drop and consequently the war effort will be retarded.

"The committee of which I am chairman has given this matter serious consideration because we realize the necessity of keeping up the production of our plants so as to supply the necessities of war.

"In our consideration we have devoted much study to the employment of women and believe that in the employment of women lies the solution of the problem.

"As a means of learning just how many women there are in the Bristol Area willing to enter industry our committee will within the next few days make public a questionnaire.

"It is hoped that the women of this area will answer the questionnaire and give us the information which we seek. We want to learn immediately how many women are available for industry here; how many will take employment in these industries; how many of them have children and other information, relative to obtaining a comprehensive knowledge of the available supply of women for industry here.

"We have given consideration to the establishment of a Day Nursery School and would like to find out just how many women would be available for industry, if there was a suitable place for the care of their children while they were employed."

Mr. Stlemmer in conclusion said that he would like the Courier to give publicity to the questionnaire to be released within the next day or two.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Dec. 2.—Michael Pindar, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pindar, 248 Jackson street, Bristol, Pa., sworn to avenge Pearl Harbor, is being molded into a fighting Bluejacket at the U. S. Naval Training Station here.

In addition to being physically toughened through participation in daily exercises and military drill, he is learning the principles of seamanship, naval customs and procedure.

He is also taking a series of aptitude tests designed to determine the type of work for which he is best qualified. On the basis of these tests, upon completing his preliminary training he will be sent to one of the Navy's many service schools for advanced training, or be assigned directly to active duty at sea or a shore station.

Between the time he finished training and is transferred to a new post, however, he will be given a nine-day leave.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Post-War Policy

Washington, Dec. 1.
IT is natural that the tide of war in our favor should actively stimulate discussion of post-war problems. Already our military conquests have imposed upon us heavy political burdens connected with the care and control of civilian populations. It is easy to see that as we liberate more and more occupied territory these burdens will increase in weight and importance.

OUR responsibilities of this nature are as great as they are unescapable. Upon the way in which we discharge them depends whether chaos, famine and disease can be averted from the millions of oppressed peoples whose freedom will be restored through the victory of the United Nations. It is as clear that if these enfeebled countries are permitted to sink into a state of anarchy the effect will be very damaging to us as it is that they will do exactly that if we do not hold them up.

IT therefore is sense to urge that we not be caught unprepared for the great salvage job that must follow liberation nor be without a well-thought-out, easily comprehensible policy upon which to operate. Such a policy, so far as this nation is concerned, already exists. It was proclaimed in a speech last July by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Brushing aside the loose utterances and muddy thinking on the subject, Mr. Hull then laid down a specific program of continuous co-operation among the United Nations after victory. This involved not only the sending of food, clothing and medicines to the countries ravaged by war but aid in the rehabilitation of their agriculture and industry. It

CALENDAR TIME

December is traditionally calendar time, the period of the year when business houses hand out these mementoes to their customers. Some calendar concoctions in recent years have been quite pretentious affairs, covering a great space on the wall and often embellished with bathing beauties almost life-size and sometimes sans the suit.

There will not be much of this sort of thing this year, according to reports. Bathing girls, brooks, contented cows and fields of daisies will appear on some of the 1943 calendars, but far more will have as the central motif pictures of planes, tanks, warships, men in the armed forces. The effect of war has descended upon the calendar. New times, new ways—and a picture of a butterfly on a calendar next year would seem somewhat incongruous at that.

Legend is vague as to the origin of the modern advertising calendar.
How it started or what some of the first looked like or advertised are unknown to this age. Forty years ago pictures of horses were perhaps the favorite embellishment for calendars. No statistics have ever been advanced as to the "pulling" power of this form of advertising. Calendar manufacturers would resent a suggestion that people do not consult calendars before starting on a shopping trip.

But as a business proposition the same amount of money put into newspaper advertising would of course bring immediate sales increases. Sentiment seems to have much to do with the calendar custom. People expect calendars and appear to be pleased when one is handed to them, regardless of how many they have collected from other sources.

COLLEGES AND HISTORY

An interesting idea was tossed up recently by President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette College.
He said at a special graduation ceremony that prophets of gloom who picture the independent colleges of America as on the verge of extinction are ignorant of history.

Bolstering his contention, Doctor Lewis recalled that Lafayette College had no commencement in 1863 because under the pressure of the Battle of Gettysburg, the students had rushed to volunteer. Only nineteen remained, and six teachers continued to work for only a few dollars of compensation. Doctor Lewis said that Lafayette and scores of other institutions had records of heroic struggle and sacrifice which proved that the American college was tough, loyal and determined.

Few persons will contend that the independent American college will pass from the scene because it is hard to see far enough into the future to say with certainty what the situation that they must face will be. Nor is there any wish to detract from the toughness, loyalty and determination of the independent college. But Doctor Lewis erred in using the historical argument to prove that the independent colleges of America will weather the approaching storm.

Many a business man of today who has seen fail, because of unparalleled circumstances, a concern which his direct ancestors had kept going under tremendous difficulties in the past, could tell Doctor Lewis a few things about using an argument.

The Great Game of Politics

involved further the creation of an other international organization along the lines of the League of Nations, the establishment of a permanent court of international justice and the removal of all economic barriers to free trade.

—O—
FINALLY, it involved not only protective care of the devastated nations until such time as they could, themselves, establish stable governments, but a continued "surveillance" over the aggressor nations until they had given "convincing proof that they have repudiated and abandoned the monstrous philosophy of superior race and conquest by force and have embraced loyally basic principles of peaceful processes."

In brief, he proposed that the United States assume its full share of the responsibility for the rehabilitation and stabilization of the world. It was a bold, concrete and practical program, wholly free from soggy sentimentalism, and its strong endorsement, previous to delivery, by the President gave it weight as accepted American postwar policy.

—O—
MR. ROOSEVELT'S recent appointment of Governor Lehman is one step toward implementing that policy. The way in which our forces are propping the civil government and helping the people in French Africa is another. As the end approaches, the principles laid down by Mr. Hull will appear more and more basic. It would be fine if they were more generally understood and more widely accepted. All of which makes this a particularly timely moment for the ardent advocates of Vice-President Wallace to begin again to beat their breasts over his cloudy common-man-era-two-quarts-of-milk-a-day address, on the basis of which they, rather absurdly, tried to elevate him to the Lincoln level.

—O—
IN THIS connection a correction is due the Office of War Information.
Recently it sent out a pamphlet entitled "Toward New Horizons," dealing with post-war problems and containing the speeches of Messrs.
Wallace, Welles, Winant and Milo Perkins. The absence of Mr. Hull's speech, which had far overshadowed all these in importance, was commented upon in this column and the suggestion was made that it had been sidetracked by New Deal influences, always hostile to him. This was a mistake. The pamphlet was originally issued last summer. Mr.
Hull's speech was not included because the pamphlet was in the hands of the printer before Mr. Hull spoke. His speech was subsequently printed by the O. W. I., widely circulated here, and very widely indeed abroad, through Mr. Robert Sherwood, director of the Overseas Service.

—O—
I HEREWITH acquit the O. W. I. of any wish to disparage Mr. Hull and regret the error, which, however, was made not unnatural by the redistribution at this late date of the Wallace pamphlet. Entirely aside from the O. W. I. and its pamphlets, the friends of Mr.
Wallace have reached the point where they curiously resent any one not taking him as seriously as they take him themselves. Recently one of them admitted that his speech was vague and then vigorously defended it on the ground that vagueness was necessary and desirable, which certainly is a new idea. Actually, the effort to keep that Wallace speech alive has come to the funny stage, and the strain is severe. His champions had much better forget it and accept the Hull speech, in which there isn't a single vague word, as real American postwar policy. It is just as high-minded and humanitarian as Mr. Wallace's —and a lot more sensible.

"Four Freedoms" Are Dwelt Upon Before Women Voters

NEWTOWN, Dec. 2—Mrs. Albert Chapman, Washington Crossing, gave a talk on "The Four Freedoms" at a meeting of the Newtown League of Women Voters a few days ago. She spoke briefly of the freedom from want and fear and of freedom of speech, expression and religion.

Paying a high tribute to the American Friends' Service Committee, Mrs. Chapman said people must learn to worship together.

During the meeting, which was in charge of Mrs. Albert Mammel, a report of the six-county conference of the League of Women Voters in Philadelphia, was given by Mrs. Reuben P. Kester.

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Almighty and Eternal Father, we are ever grateful for those who have preceded us, for the blessing of Christian parents, for the opportunity of learning at their knees the blessed truths of Thy Gospel and the outstretched arms of Thy Grace. Grant, O God, that their efforts, their willing sacrifices, their constant prayers may not have been in vain, but that we, upon whom these blessings were showered may by our lives reveal the value of their efforts. Through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The ordinary machine gun is too cumbersome for our Marines, especially for parachute troops. So the Marines have adopted new model of the Reising sub-machine gun, a .45-caliber weapon.

The new gun used by the para troops is a compact model with a pistol grip and a steel-frame stool which folds out of the way when not in use. You can help buy them for our Boys in the Solomons and elsewhere with your purchase of War Bonds. Join the Payroll Savings Plan and let's "Top that ten percent by New Year's."

a real estate and insurance office. At one time Mr. Walton held the office of justice of the peace; and at the time of his death was Democratic committeeman from this area.

He was a member of the Church of the Redeemer (Episcopal); and was also affiliated with Bristol Lodge, No. 25, F. and A. M.; and with Shalom Chapter, Philadelphia. He was a past master of the Bristol Lodge.

The Rev. Arthur F. Gibson, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, will officiate at the services in that edifice on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will be made in Sunset Memorial Park. Friends may call at the funeral home of Robert C. Ruehl, 314 Cedar street, Bristol, on Friday evening.

Pleads Guilty To Motor Law Violation to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of one dollar, and sentenced him to not less than six nor more than 18 months. His license was revoked for an additional period of one year.

Edgar R. Ebersole, of Philadelphia, went on trial before a jury in Judge Calvin S. Boyer's Court, on a charge of driving while drunk, on the Bethlehem pike between Quakertown and Sellersville.

The jury: Arthur R. Johnson, Quakertown; A. Russell Burton, Bristol; M. Melvin Freed, Perkasee; William P. Casey, Andalusia; Adriana H. Harmsen, Bristol R. D. 1; Paul E. Bennett, Quakertown R. D. 1; Gladys Richardson, Andalusia; Edith R. Black, Bristol; Phillip Rubincam, Sellersville R. D. 1; Chester H. Kelly, Plumsteadville; Harry C. Wilson, Richboro; Elizabeth Kelly, Bristol R. D. 1.

Dr. C. A. Kressley, Sellersville, testified that he treated Ebersole at the Grand View Hospital, January 19, 1942, for injuries to his knees. Dr. Kressley testified that he had the odor of liquor on his breath, but that he was normal otherwise. The witness testified that in his opinion the defendant was "under the influence of intoxicating liquor."

"I treated the defendant's injuries first, and had I not been asked to examine him for intoxication by the police, I would not have passed judgment as to intoxication," Dr. Kressley testified. "His injuries were more serious than his intoxication."

Corp. Chester W. Reitz, of the Quakertown Motor Police sub-station, saw the defendant on the date of the accident, at 12.45 p. m. The accident involved two other cars.

Walter Bijuki, Torresdale, whose license was revoked for speeding in July, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to a charge of operating a motor vehicle after the privilege had been suspended.

A student in biology at the School of Pharmacy, Bijuki declared he thought he was morally justified in driving a car to relieve his father whom he said is not a very capable driver.

A fine of $100 and the costs of prosecution were imposed by Judge Keller, who also directed that his license be suspended for another ninety day period.

Frank C. Jungkruth, of Germantown, pleaded guilty before Judge Hiram H. Keller in criminal court to charges defendant's car struck another car on of driving while drunk and failure to stop at scene of an accident. The de-

Route 202, near Buckingham, and continued on.

Jungkruth was arrested on November 7th, by Pvt. Mitchell, of the Motor Police. He testified that he had drunk five or six beers and a few whiskies but said he did not recall striking the other car. The Court ordered him to pay the costs of prosecution and a $100 fine on each charge, suspending sentence on condition that damages be paid.

The defendant, Jungkruth, 36, of Ambler, a salesman, testified that he started out in the morning, felt badly, took a drink of whiskey and a Bromo-seltzer. He described the accident which, he said, happened in a fog.

The case was still on trial at noon.

JAPS HURLED BACK IN CHANGSI

Fired by the memory of a hundred thousand outrages to families and homes, China's incomparable troops struck again with a fury that can't be stopped.

Again the Japs went reeling back...yielding vast gains of a bloody and bitter spring campaign.

The hearts of free men everywhere swell with pride at each new forward surge of China's fighting men. For theirs has been a glorious struggle.

Here at home, too, there can be pride in the way Greater Philadelphia has fought every step of the way in this new advance of the Sons of China. Machine guns and gun mounts, small arms ammunition, bombs, airplane instruments, medical supplies. You'll find them all on the China front. Also in Russia, in Jugoslavia, wherever men of steel stand against the hordes of despotism... in the thick of the fight you'll find tools of war from the factories of this five-county area.

Seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day, our factory workers are straining every effort to make sure fighting men everywhere have all they need, when they need it. And the determined look on every worker's face says more plainly than words, "No letup until the war is won!"

PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC COMPANY

LOWER COST, FOR YOU...FOR UNCLE SAM
Through research, constant experimentation, better teamwork, the Philadelphia Electric Company has been endeavoring for years to lower the cost of the electricity you use. In twenty-five years this means greater economy to you. Today it serves a double purpose. Lower electrical rates also help hold down Uncle Sam's war bill...and at the same time leave him free to adequately use the power that helps speed production.
